Taser Holster

Cross Reference of Related Application

5 This is a divisional application of a non-provisional application, application number 09/991,425, filed November 16, 2001. now Patent No. 6,691,906.

Background of the Present Invention

Field of Invention

10 The present invention relates to a holster, and more particularly to a taser holster which comprises a shielding flap not only adapted to cover up the taser holder for protecting the taser therein from public sight, damaging abrasions, and close quarters grappling, but also can be held over the taser holder such that the user is able to withdraw the taser from the taser holder in a quick and hassle-free manner.

Description of Related Arts

15 The duty of a police officer is to keep the public order. During the protest movement, such as protest march and demonstration, the police officers must be on alert and usually be armed to prevent an unexpected incident since any one of the demonstrators can be a potential offender. In order to minimize an unwanted injury, the police officer may carry other kinds of weapons such as taser or stagger gun instead of a pistol.

20 The taser is normally held in a holster which is stored in the squad car such that the police officer can quickly load the taser within seconds during such urgent situation. Another essential purpose of the holster is that the holster needs to offer security and conceal the taser from agitated individuals while providing a quick withdraw manner of the taser from the holster for use.
